Jenny Coco, is the CEO of the Coco Group, including Coco Paving Inc., the largest family owned and operating asphalt road building and paving company in Canada.

She joined the Coco Group full time in 1987, overseeing the daily management of the Canadian and U.S. Operations. Jenny is responsible for the negotiation of acquisitions and working with family members to expand the operations into a premier vertically integrated heavy civil construction company with ratings and capabilities available to complete any size infrastructure project, spanning across Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec.

Over the years, Coco has developed expertise in heavy civil construction works, including asphalt and concrete manufacturing and pavement, structures, supply of asphalt cement for internal and external customers, operation of pits and quarries, including crushing and supply of aggregates to plants and projects, installation of municipal services, including electrical site services.

Jenny is a Board Member of additional family enterprises including a wide range of residential, condominium and commercial developments, Ambassadors Golf Course as well as CoPipe Products, Inc., a concrete pipe manufacturing facility located in Taylor, Michigan.

She is a key principle of Bridging Finance, which has established itself as a provider of non-distressed private debt financing in Canada with an AUM of over $1Bn.

Jenny is a graduate of the University of Windsor where she obtained her MBA (Finance) in 1985 as well as having received an Honorary Doctorate of Law in 2012.

Jenny has been a member of the Integrated Financial Planning Committee for the London Diocese, and has previously served on the Board of Directors for the University of Windsor and Federal Business Development Bank of Canada. Jenny is currently a Board member on the Toronto General and Western Hospital Foundation.

Coco has its Head Office located at 949 Wilson Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.
